

Kick Start:

Your pathway to UK SRS readiness

The UK is introducing new Sustainability Reporting Standards (UK SRS), based on IFRS S1 and S2, adapted for the UK market. These standards will require companies to disclose material sustainability-related risks and opportunities in their annual reports, strengthening the connection between financial and non-financial information.

While initially voluntary, the government has made clear that mandatory adoption will follow. Investors are already encouraging companies to adopt early, viewing the standards as a benchmark for credible, comparable disclosures. Early movers will be better placed to build trust, meet stakeholder expectations, and shape their reporting processes on their own terms, rather than under regulatory pressure.

Our Kick Start programme helps organisations prepare for the UK Sustainability Reporting Standards with a clear, structured approach:

An overview of UK SRS and what it means for your business

- A review of current reporting maturity and alignment
- Identification of key gaps and priority areas
- A tailored roadmap for phased implementation

Findings will be presented through a workshop, where there will be lots of opportunities to ask questions and dive deep into the insights.

Cost: £7,000

What are investors saying?

"For sustainability information to support investment decisions, it must be consistent and comparable across companies and time. We urge companies and jurisdictions to adopt the ISSB Standards as a global baseline for decision-useful reporting."

NBIM

"We see financially material, investor-relevant sustainability data as essential. The ISSB Standards are pivotal for providing high-quality, comparable information, and we encourage companies to apply them voluntarily."
